HISTORICAL STATEMENT

Prior to 1846 many of the young people of the Church were educated in institutions belonging to other denominations, and by this means many of the most promising were drawn into other church relations. The propriety and importance of an institution of learning owned and controlled by the Church was the subject of frequent conversation and discussion, but no movement was made toward the establishment of such an institution before 1846.

At the General Conference of 1845 it was—

"Resolved, That proper measures be adopted to establish an institution of learning.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the attention of the annual conferences."

"This action," says Mr. Lawrence, "wisely contemplated the establishment, by concurrent action of all the annual conferences, of a single institution of learning."

The first action was taken by the Miami Conference, convened at Otterbein Chapel, March 3, 1846. They agreed to unite with the conferences of northern and central Indiana in establishing a school at Bluffton, Indiana, or some other suitable point. To this the St. Joseph Conference responded favorably, and appointed the first three trustees in the history of the Church. These conferences did not agree upon a location, and so no school was established.

The Scioto Conference, convening October 26, 1846, resolved upon the establishment of a school, purchased the Blendon Young Men's Seminary at Westerville, Ohio, elected a board of trustees, solicited the co-operation of other conferences, and provided for the appointment of an agent; and so was projected the first school of the Church. In February, 1847, the Sandusky Conference voted to co-operate. The trustees of these two conferences met for the first time April 26, 1847, founding the institution with the name of "Otterbein University of Ohio."

In September, 1847, the doors of Otterbein University, though then only an academy, were opened for the first time for the reception of students. For two years it continued as an academy; but in 1849 it was chartered as "The Otterbein University of Ohio," taking its name from PHILIP WILLIAM OTTERBEIN, the founder of the Church. This was the dawn of a new life to the Church. After this began the expansion and growth of the Publishing House, then the only connectional institution of the Church, and the projection of the Board of Missions, the General Sabbath-School Board, Union Biblical Seminary, the Church-Erection Society, the General Board of Education, the Woman's Missionary Association, the Young People's Christian Union, the various other colleges and the academies.

In 1853 the Miami Conference voted to co-operate with the University, and since then eleven others have been added, the fourteen conferences having a total membership of one hundred thousand—seventy thousand more than were in the whole denomination at the time of the founding of the college. As to the character of the work done, the institution was no more than an academy until 1854, when the first college class was organized. The first graduates were two ladies, in 1857. Since then there has been each succeeding year a graduating class, and the alumni, including the class of 1901, number five hundred and sixtv-seven.

Founded in faith and consecrated by prayer, the college has exerted a strong influence for good, and is felt in every department of church work. From the beginning, the religious influence has been a great auxiliary in its work. The Y. M. C. A., the first college branch of that society in the State, was organized in 1878. The Y. W. C. A., the first in the State, the third in the United States, and the chief promoter of the International Association, originated in the fall of 1882. Growing out of these there has been for several years an excellent Volunteer Band.

The Christian Association and gvmnasium building, the first college Christian Association building in the State, was completed, at a cost of $15,000, in the autumn of 1893, and is a monument to the earnest Christian life of the students.

GENERAL INFORMATION

LOCATION

Otterbein University is located at Westerville, Franklin County, Ohio, on the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railroad, twelve miles north of Columbus.

Westerville is a pleasant town of about 2,000 inhabitants, connected with the capital city by the Columbus Electric Railway. Its freedom from saloons and other low places of resort makes it an especially desirable place of residence for students.

TERMS AND VACATIONS

The college year comprises three terms and two vacations, the arrangement of which will be understood by reference to the calendar on page3.

EXAMINATIONS

Written examinations of classes are held at the close of each term, at the discretion of the teacher. Any student who fails to receive a term grade of sixty-five hundredths in any study will be required to submit to an examination after further preparation, or will repeat the study with the next lower class. Applicants for special examinations will be charged an appropriate fee.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Devotional exercises are conducted in the Chapel every morning except Saturday and Sunday, at a quarter before nine o'clock. All students are required to be present.

Divine service is held at a quarter after ten o'clock every Sunday morning in the Chapel. All students are expected to be present, except such as have permission, under the rules, to attend service elsewhere.

The International Bible Lessons are taught in classes every Sunday morning at nine o'clock.

Regular recitations are heard during the year in the Greek of the New Testament, and in the English Bible.

Prayer meetings are held by the various classes of the University at stated times.

Two Christian Associations are maintained by the students of the University—the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association, each meeting weekly in a hall of their own. Both are branches of the International Christian Associations, having correspondence with similar societies of the country. These are great auxiliaries to the religious life of the college.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Excellent opportunity for literary improvement and parliamentary training is afforded by the societies of the college. There are four of these societies—two sustained by the young ladies, the PHILALETHEAN and the CLEIORHETEAN; and two by the young men, the PHILOPHRONEAN and the PHILOMATHEAN. Each of the societies has a large, well-furnished hall. The literary societies of the college are regarded as valuable agencies in college work, and students are advised to unite with one of them.

PHYSICAL CULTURE

The Association building contains a gymnasium equipped with modern apparatus. Systematic training in the gymnasium under competent teachers is required of all students in the Academy, and of Freshmen and Sophomores. Others may avail themselves of the privileges of the gymnasium by applying to the instructors in charge.

LIBRARIES

The various libraries connected with the University contain ten thousand volumes and four thousand pamphlets. About three hundred dollars are expended yearly in the purchase of new books. Many volumes are added to the library by donation also. The libraries are in one room and are carefully classified and well cared for.

Connected with the Library is a Reading Room, furnished with the best religious and secular papers and magazines.

Students have free admission to the Library and Reading Room. The Library is open every day, and every effort is made to encourage a free use of books and papers as aids to the work of the recitation room. The matriculation fee is devoted wholly to the building up of the Library.

LECTURES

Besides the frequent opportunities afforded in a university town to hear distinguished lecturers, students here may avail themselves of the Citizens' Lecture Course, whose entertainments are given in the University Chapel. This year the following course has been given:

Dr. William Quayle—"Jean Val Jean."
Gamble Concert Company.
Dr. A. A. Willitts—"Sunshine.'
H. Spillman Riggs—"Musical Fits and Misfits."
G. A. Gearhart—"The Coming Man."
Parker Concert Company.

DEGREES AND DIPLOMAS

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred, by a vote of the Board of Trustees, on recommendation of the Faculty, upon all students who have satisfactorily completed the Classical Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Philosophy is in like manner conferred upon all who satisfactorily complete the Philosophical Course.

The degrees of Master of Arts and Master of Philosophy in course will be conferred, first, upon Bachelors of Arts and Bachelors of Philosophy of three years' standing who have completed a standard course of professional study and present a satisfactory thesis upon a topic approved by the Faculty; second, upon Bachelors of Arts and Bachelors of Philosophy who take a year of resident work in college and present a satisfactory thesis.

These must be submitted at least one month before the close of the college year. The graduation fee and the fee for the Master's degree, are five dollars each.

AID TO STUDENTS

No tuition fee is charged the children of superannuated and itinerant ministers of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ. All, however, will be required to pay the incidental fee.

The Board of Education of the same Church offers some pecuniary aid to young men preparing for the ministry and to young women preparing for missionary work. Application for such aid must be made to the Secretary of the Board, Dayton, Ohio. It is hoped that the laudable efforts of this Board will be rewarded by such liberal contributions that, from year to year, still larger sums may be devoted to aiding worthy students.

Young men of limited means who come to the University will be advised by the Faculty in regard to means of obtaining a support, or of defraying a part of their expenses. Some students find employment in the village in doing chores in private families, and in other light work. A few students have been able to pay a large part of their expenses by labor out of hours of study. Many spend their vacations in some profitable employment.

It is believed that no person, if he be energetic and willing to work, need despair of completing a course of study in the University.

MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

In order to aid needy and worthy students in securing an education, Mr. J. W. Welshans, of Bedington, W. Va., by the payment of one thousand dollars, has established, in memory of his son, THE GEORGE E. WELSHANS MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP. It is hoped that this may be increased, and that many others of like character may be established.

EXPENSES

The charges made by the University are: Matriculation fee, to all in the College and Preparatory departments, one dollar, and to all in the adjunct departments, twenty-five cents; tuition, gymnasium and incidental expenses, for the fall term, seventeen dollars and fifty cents, and for each of the short terms, eleven dollars and seventy-five cents.

BOARDING.—The University furnishes neither boarding nor lodging. Students may make their own choice of location, subject to the supervision of the Faculty. At private boarding houses the prices range from two dollars to two dollars and a half a week. In clubs, boarding varies in price from one dollar and sixty-five cents to two dollars and a quarter a week.

ROOMS vary in price according to location and furnishing. A room for one student can be had at rates varying from fifty cents to one dollar and a quarter a week. Two students can room together and reduce their expenses nearly one-half.

FUEL AND LIGHT will cost from ten to twenty dollars a year. Coal is delivered at from two dollars and fifty cents to three dollars a ton for bituminous, and six to seven dollars a ton for anthracite.

TEXT-BOOKS vary in cost from five to fifteen dollars a year.

SOCIETY FEE.—An entrance fee of three dollars is charged by the Philalethean and Cleiorhetean societies, and of five dollars by the Philophronean and Philomathean societies.

GRADUATION FEE.—Five dollars, payable to the Treasurer four weeks before graduation.

PAYMENT.—Tuition and incidental fees are payable strictly in advance, unless special arrangement is made.

NECESSARY EXPENSES FOR A TERM OF ELEVEN WEEKS.

Matriculation fee	$1 00		$1 00
Tuition fee	4 00		4 00
Incidental fee	7 75		7 75
Rent and care of room	5 15	to	16 50
Boarding	16 50	to	24 75
Fuel, light and washing	4 00	to	9 00
Books and stationery	3 00	to	9 00
	$41 40		$72 00

EXTRA TUITION.

Students taking more than sixteen hours of recitations a week will be charged extra tuition at the proportionate rate.

Doubtless some students find it quite easy to spend annually a larger sum than $250, and do not regard themselves extravagant; but it is equally certain that a year in college costs even less than $150 cash to some, who are not aware that they deprive themselves of any necessaries or practice self-denial.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Otterbein University Historical Society was organized March 31, 1885, and incorporated January 19, 1886. for the promotion of historical studies, and maintaining a library and museum. Articles for the museum and books for the library are earnestly solicited.

THE COLLEGE

THE COLLEGE offers the following courses of study: The Classical Course and the Philosophical Course.

CLASSICAL COURSE

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class are examined in the following studies:

ENGLISH.—Grammar, Analysis, American Literature, and Rhetoric.

An essay of about five hundred words, correct in spelling, punctuation and grammar, must be written by the candidate, in the presence of the examiners, upon some subject drawn from one of the following works:

For 1901—Milton's L'Allegro, Il Penseroso, Comus and Lysidas. Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Macaulay's Essays on Milton and Addison.

GREEK.—Grammar, Anabasis (four books), Iliad (three books), Composition.

LATIN.—Grammar, Cæsar (four books), Cicero (seven orations), Vergil (six books), Prose Composition.

MATHEMATICS.—Arithmetic, Academic Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry.

SCIENCE.—Geography (Descriptive and Physical), Astronomy, Physiology, Elementary Physics, Botany.

HISTORY.—United State History, General History, Civil Government.

PHILOSOPHICAL COURSE

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class are examined in the same studies as for the Classical Course, except that German Grammar, German Reader, German Prose and Composition, Wilhelm Tell and Maria Stuart are required instead of the Greek.

Real equivalents for studies required are received at the discretion of the Faculty.

Students who seek credit for studies pursued in high schools and academies must submit certificates stating the texts or portions of texts used, and the number of hours spent in recitation thereon.

Candidates for advanced standing coming from any other institution of equal grade will receive credit, without examination, for the studies which the faculty of such school may testify that they have passed.

Studies pursued in high schools, academies and other preparatory schools will not be accepted as equivalents of studies in the Junior and Senior years.

Students will not be allowed to take more than seventeen hours of classroom work weekly, except by special arrangement, nor to take a study privately without permission of the Faculty. Electives must be chosen at the beginning of the year, and are expected to represent a continuous and connected course of study. Changes in electives must have the approval of the Faculty.

Students coming from other institutions must present certificates of honorable dismission.

THE CLASSICAL COURSE

The student will elect, in the Sophomore year one, and in the Junior and Senior years, two of the studies marked "Elective."

DEPARTMENTS AND COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LOGIC, INTELLECTUAL AND MORAL SCIENCE

I. Logic. McCosh's Logic. The aim is to make the subject as practical and useful as possible, special attention being given to the laws of thought and to fallacies in reasoning. The relation between deduction and induction is carefully studied and there is special effort to make plain the basis upon which induction rests.

Fall Term—Four hours a week.

II. Psychology. Dewey's Psychology will be used as a text-book. There will be free discussions on points of special interest and difficulty, and there will be constant effort to lead the student to sound and defensible conclusions.

Fall Term—Four hours a week.

III. Ethics. The subject is pursued in its twofold division of theoretical and practical Ethics, giving the student the best results of modern research. For a text, Robinson's Principles and Practice of Morality is used.

Winter Term—Four hours a week.

EVIDENCES AND THE BIBLE

I. Natural Theology. In this study there is an exploration of the world of matter and of mind to discover the evidences of the being and character of God. Care is taken to show the harmony which exists between the laws of nature as established by science and the teachings of the Bible. Valentine's Natural Theology is used as a guide.

Winter Term—Three hours a week.

II. The Bible. Required, for Sophomores.
Fall, Winter and Spring Term—Two hours a week.

III. The Bible. Required, for Seniors.
Fall Term—The Pentateuch; Lectures on the Unity and Development of the Old Testament.

Winter Term—The wisdom literature of the Bible. The texts used will be Zuck's Book of Job, and Moulton's Proverbs.

Spring Term—Old Testament Prophecy.
Two hours a week.

IV. Butler's Analogy. Elective, for Seniors. In this study, the aim is by supplemental lectures to adapt the study to the times, calling attention to the later forms of unbelief, in order to place the student in possession of as complete a defense of the Christian faith as possible.
Fall Term—Three hours a week.

V. Evidences of Christianity. Fisher's The Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief. With this work the study of the Christian Evidences in the course is concluded. There is constant endeavor to justify in the student the conviction that the argument for Christianity is one of impregnable strength.
Spring Term—Four hours a week.

ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

I. Taxation. Elective, for Seniors.
Plehn's Introduction to Public Finance will be used as a text. Development of tax systems will be considered; defects in our present system will be pointed out and suggested improvements will be considered.
Fall Term—Four hours a week.

II. International Law. Elective, for Seniors.
Davis's Text will be used. International Law will be treated from the side of its historical development, and special attention will be given to the consideration of the code as it exists today.
Winter Term—Four hours a week.

III. Socialism. Elective, for Seniors.
Ely's Socialism and Social Reform will be used as a text. The conditions which gave rise to Socialism, the doctrines of Socialism, the practicability and impracticability of the socialistic scheme will be considered.
Spring Term—Four hours a week.

IV. Political Economy. Bullock will be used as a text. The course will cover the fundamental principles of economics. Special attention will be given to recent economic changes.
Spring Term—Four hours a week.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE, AND RHETORIC

I. Anglo-Saxon. The class will make a careful study of the Grammar, and will read rapidly selections from the writings of Ælfric and Alfred, and the poem Elene. The end sought is familiarity with the written language in its oldest form, and an elementary knowledge of Anglo-Saxon literature. Cook's First Book in Old English. Kent's Elene.

Fall Term—Four hours a week.

II. Middle English. The class will read Langland's Vision of Piers the Plowman, with special attention to the vocabulary, grammar, literary form, and the social and political conditions of England during the fourteenth century. The text used will be Skeat's edition, Clarendon Press Series.

Winter Term—Four hours a week.

III. English Language. The history of the language is carefully traced, including its dialects, transitional stages, and modern development. Stress is laid on the Latin element, the periods and causes of its introduction, and its value. Topics are assigned for library investigation. Lounsbury's English Language is the text.

Spring Term—Four hours a week.

Courses I., II. and III. are elective for Sophomores, and constitute a year of philological and literary study of English.

IV. English Literature. For historical study, Pancoast's Introduction to English Literature is required. For critical study, Chaucer's Canterbury Tales—The Prologue, The Knight's Tale (Morris and Skeat). English Prose and prose Writers. Lectures.

Spring Term—Sophomore. Four hours a week.

V. Rhetoric and Composition. The work is divided between theory and practice. Genung's Practical Elements of Rhetoric is used as a text-book. Short essays are written every week and criticised by the instructor before the class, or in consultation with the student. There will also be frequent opportunity for rapid writing in the classroom, with criticisms by the class. The aim is to give regular and systematic training in English writing.

Winter and Spring Terms—Junior. Four hours a week.

VI. English Literature. Epic and Lyric Poetry. The Rise of the Romantic School. Selections from Milton, Wordsworth, Browning and Tennyson, to illustrate their mind and art. Pancoast's Standard English Poems; Gummere's Handbook of Poetics.

Fall Term—Senior. Four hours a week.

VII. Literary Criticism. The nature, laws, methods and relations of literature. A brief review of the history of English literary criticism. The desire is to create an intelligent appreciation by educated readers of such literature as should appeal to the mature mind, and to point out some of the principles that must be assumed in all sound critical judgments.

Winchester's Principles of Literary Criticism.

Fall Term—Senior, elective. Three hours a week.

VIII. English Literature. The English drama—its origin; the Miracle and Morality Plays; the progress of the drama. Woodbridge's The Drama is used as a basis for classroom work. The class will read with critical comment three of Shakespeare's plays. Reports on assigned subjects will be required. Lectures.

Winter Term—Senior, elective. Four hours a week.

IX. American Literature. The Seminary. This is an advanced course, and will present American literature in the fundamental principles underlying its development, and as the expression of the political life of the nation and the intellectual growth of the people. The Seminary will have a two hours' session weekly, when papers on assigned subjects will be read and freely discussed. With the reading required, the course is the equivalent of a study having four hours of recitations each week.

Text—Richardson's American Literature.

Spring Term—Senior, elective. Four hours a week.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

I. Homer's Odyssey, four books. Review of Mythology. Study of Homeric Prosody, with frequent exercises in scanning. Discussion of the Homeric Question. The Ionic Dialect. Sight-reading. Occasional Exercises in Greek Composition. Written translation. Lectures.

Fall Term—Freshman. Four hours a week.

II. Herodotus, selections. History of Greece during the period of the Persian Wars. Study of the New Ionic, and comparison with the Old. Sight-reading. Exercises in Greek Composition. Written translations. Lectures.

Winter Term—Freshman. Four hours a week.

III. Lucian, selections. Review of the Attic dialect, and comparison with the Ionic. Estimate of Lucian's works. Greek composition. Written translations. Lectures.

Spring Term—Freshman. Four hours a week.

IV. Greek Drama. Origin and development. The Chorus. Styles of the great dramatists. Uses of meters. The Choephoroi of Æschylus in class. For private reading, the Electra of Sophocles. Written translations. The Gospel of Matthew, one hour a week. Manuscripts of the New Testament. Essays on assigned subjects. Lectures.

Fall Term—Sophomore. Three hours a week.

V. Greek Oratory. Rise of oratory in Greece. The ten Attic orators. Demosthenes on the Crown, in class. For private reading, the oration of Æschines against Ctesiphon. Written translations. Essays on assigned subjects. The Epistle to the Colossians, one hour a week. New Testament text criticism. Lectures.

Winter Term—Sophomore. Three hours a week.

VI. Greek Philosophy. Classification of the Schools, and distinctive tenets. Socrates and the Sophists. Characteristics of Plato's style. The Apology of Plato, in class. For private reading, the Euthyphron. Written translations. Essays on assigned subjects. Sight-reading. The Epistles of John, one hour a week. Text criticism. Lectures.

Spring Term—Sophomore. Three hours a week.

VII. Greek Lyric Poetry. History of Greek poetry. Development of lyrics. Characteristics of classes of lyrics, with specimens of each. Study of Pindar. Pindar's Olympian and Pythian Odes, in class. For private reading, selections from Tyrtæus, Theognis, Simonides and Anacreon. Written translations. Theses on assigned topics. Lectures.

Elective, Junior and Senior Years—Four hours a week.

Text-Books—Perrin's Homer's Odyssey. Merry's Herodotus. Sidgwick's Choephoroi. Sewall's Lucian. Jebb's Electra. D'Ooge's Demosthenes. Richardson's Æschines. Wagner's Apology. Adam's Euthyphron. Westcott and Hort's Greek Testament. Gildersleeve's Pindar. Tyler's Greek Lyric Poets.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

I. Freshmen, Required. The aim of the work during this year will be to develop in the student the ability to read Latin readily and with appreciation, and to give him a general acquaintance with Roman life, literature and civilization. There will be (1) a more minute study of the grammar; (2) an advanced course in Latin prose composition; (3) rapid reading of assigned portions of the authors studied, and sight-reading; (4) an outline course in general Roman literature.

1. Livy, Books I. and II. A study of the Roman historians. Early Roman history. Latinity of Livy and his credibility as an author. Advanced Latin prose composition. Sight-reading.

Fall Term—Four hours a week.

2. Cicero, De Senectute. Roman History. The history of the Republican Period. Prose Composition. Sight-reading.

Winter Term—Four hours a week.

3. Catullus. History of the Empire. Roman literature. Prose composition. Sight-reading.

Spring Term—Four hours a week.

II. Sophomore, Required. The work during this year is more special. Detailed courses in prose and poetry, in literary criticism, archæology, and philology are offered. The student is led gradually to the point where he can conduct the private investigation of special topics with success and honor to himself.

1. The Roman Drama. Plays of Plautus and Terence. Roman Antiquities.

Fall Term—Three hours a week.

2. Roman Satire. Its History. Reading of Satires of Horace and Juvenal. Roman Archæology.

Winter Term—Three hours a week.

3. Roman Lyric Poetry and Elegy. Meters. Lectures, Roman Topography and Art.

Spring Term—Three hours a week.

III. Elective Courses.

1. Cicero's Letters.
2. Teachers' Course.
3. Mediæval and Modern Latin.
4. Colloquial Latin. The Sermo Plebeius.
5. Roman Literature. Advanced Course.
6. History of Roman and Mediæval Art.

Courses 1 and 2 are offered in the Fall Term, 3 and 4 in the Winter Term, and 5 and 6 in the Spring Term.

COMPARATIVE PHILOLOGY

The origin, natural growth and dialectic variations of language in general and in particular of the Indo-Germanic language. General Phonetics.

Fall and Spring Terms—Two hours a week. Elective, for Seniors.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

I. Philosophical Freshman, Required. Study of Lessing during the fall term; Nathan der Weise in class; private reading of assigned work. The winter and spring terms are devoted to the study of Goethe. Selections from his best works are taken up in the winter term, followed by the reading of one of his plays complete in the spring term. Reviews of Goethe's masterpieces in both prose and poetry make up a part of the work. Outline history of German literature through the year. Composition and sight-reading. Lectures and papers on special topics.

Four hours a week.

II. Philosophical Junior, Elective. History of German literature, supplemented by library work. Goethe's Faust and Scheffel's Trompeter von Sackkingen studied in class. The works of modern authors assigned for outside reading. Composition and conversation.

Four hours a week.

III. Philosophical Senior, Elective. History of the German language. Study in class of Wenckebach's Meisterwerke des Mittelalters, and Klenze's Deutsche Gedichte. Parallel reading from modern authors. Composition and conversation.
Four hours a week.
Courses II. and III. will alternate.

IV. Classical Junior, Elective. German Grammar (Thomas). German Reader (Harris), Schiller's Die Jungfrau von Orleans, Hoffmann's Historische Erzæhlungen. Composition and rapid reading.
Four hours a week.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

I. Philosophical Sophomore, Required. The purpose of the work during this year is to enable the student to read French readily. The fall and winter terms will be devoted to a thorough study of the grammar, with special drills on the irregular verbs. In the spring term, Bronson's Exercises in Everyday French will be used. French Grammar (Whitney). French Reader (Whitney).

Texts—Souvestre, Un Philosophe sous les Toits; Erckman-Chatrian, Le Conscrit, Napoleon (Fortier); Lamartine, Jeanne d'Arc; Verne, L'Expedition de la Jeune-Hardie.

Four hours a week.

II. Junior, Elective. The work of this year will include the history of French literature, selections for reading from lyric and dramatic poetry, and modern prose. Special attention will be given the literature of the seventeenth century.

Texts—Corneille's Le Cid, Horace, Cinna; Racine's Esther, Athalie, Les Plaideurs; Moliere's Le Misanthrope, Les Femmes Savantes; Lamartine's Meditations; French Lyrics (Bowen); Hugo (selections); Haley's L'Abbe Constantin; Loti's Pecheur d' Islande. Duval's Histoir de la Litterature Francaise through the year. Essavs on assigned subjects.

Four hours a week.

NATURAL SCIENCE

BIOLOGY. A year's work, elective for Sophomores. The course embraces lectures, recitations and laboratory work. The laboratory is supplied with excellent compound microscopes, dissecting microscopes, microtome, injecting apparatus and other instruments. A laboratory fee of $1.00 a term is charged. In order to take the winter or spring term's work students must have had the work of the preceding term.

TEXT—Sedgwick and Wilson's General Biology. Laboratory guide, Dodge's Elementary Practical Biology.

GEOLOGY. A course of lectures and recitations embracing Cosmical, Lithological, Structural and Dynamical, and a brief review of Historical Geology. A study of minerals is made from hand specimens. Field work illustrates the classroom work, and topics are assigned for special study and presentation by members of the class.

TEXT—Scott's Geology.

Fall Term—Junior. Four hours.

PHYSIOLOGY. A course of lectures and practical work in advanced Physiology.

Winter Term, Elective.—Four hours.

PHYSICS. A year's course for Juniors, for which a knowledge of trigonometry is required. The study embraces recitations based upon Hastings and Beach's General Physics, and laboratory exercises selected from Ames and Bliss's Manual of Experiments in Physics. The student is expected to exhibit originality in method, and always to secure the most exact quantitative results permissible with the instruments employed in the experiment. Laboratory fee, one dollar a term.

CHEMISTRY. General Chemistry, with Remsen's Briefer Course as a guide, occupies the fall term and part of the winter. The work will consist of experimental lectures, recitations, and a minimum of four hours weekly of laboratory work. In the well-equipped laboratory each student is supplied with private desk, water, gas and outfit of chemical apparatus, for which he will be held responsible. He will perform, under the direction of the instructor, all the experiments of Remsen's text, furnishing carefully prepared notes upon the same. After this, as far as time permits, the student will perform additional experiments in general chemistry selected from larger works and involving greater skill in manipulation. Qualitative analysis occupies the last part of the year. During the past year additional courses in quantitative analysis were given. Laboratory fee, two dollars a term, for General Chemistry; two dollars and a half a term for qualitative and quantitative analysis.

MATHEMATICS

I. Trigonometry.

Fall Term—Freshman. Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, including goniometry, solution of triangles, trigonometric equations, construction of tables, De Moivre's theorem and trigonometric series. Some of the applications.

Four hours a week.

II. College Algebra.

Winter Term—Freshman. The work of this term includes theory of exponents and radicals, equations of second degree, indeterminate equations, inequalities, generalization, ratio, proportion, theory of limits, variation, logarithms, progressions, annuities, permutations, and combinations.

Spring Term—Development of functions into series, convergency and divergency of infinite series, binomial and exponential theorems, logarithmic series, summation of series, decomposition of rational fractional function, theory and graphical representations of functions, maxima and minima, determinants, probabilities, theory of equations, and theory of numbers.

Four hours a week.

III. Analytic Geometry.

Fall Term—Sophomore. Right lines, transformation of co-ordinates, circles, loci, conic sections and analysis of the general equation of the second degree. A few of the higher plane curves. Solid analytic Geometry.

Four hours a week.

IV. Modern Synthetic Geometry.

Winter Term—Sophomore. Geometric extension, center of mean position, inversion, poles and polars, radical axis and coaxal circles, perspective, harmonic ratio, anharmonic properties, polar reciprocals, homography, involution, duality, anteparallels, isogonals, symmedians, and discussion of hyperspace.

Four hours a week.

V. Surveying.

Spring Term—Elective, for Sophomores. The principles of land surveying. Use of the compass and transit for field work. Principles of leveling and use of the level. Measurement of horizontal and vertical angles for estimating heights and distances. Exercise in the use of the instrument. Railway curves and mining surveying.

Four hours a week.

VI. Differential Calculus.

Winter Term—Elective, for Juniors. Differentiation, successive differentiation, implicit functions, functions of two or more variables, change of variable, indeterminate forms, maxima and minima, development of functions into series, tangents, normals, asymtotes, curvature, evolutes, envelopes and curve tracing.

Four hours a week.

VII. Integral Calculus.

Spring Term—Elective, for Juniors. Integration, reduction formulas, definite integrals, length of curves, areas, areas of surfaces, volumes, successive integration and hyperbolic functions.

Four hours a week.

VIII. Analytic Mechanics.

Fall Term—Elective, for Seniors. Calculus required. This course is changed each year and has included Quaternions, Higher Plane Curves, Modern Geometry. Vector Algebra, The Theory of Errors and Method of Least Squares, and Determinants.

Three hours a week.

IX. Astronomy.

Spring Term—Elective, for Seniors. The solar system. Theory of the movements of the planets. Analysis of the processes by which the general facts of Astronomy are determined. Discussion of the starry system as to extent and character. A brief study of Cosmogony. Practical problems in the application of Astronomy.

Four hours a week.

HISTORY

I. American History. The Colonies, 1492-1750. The volume by Thwaites in the "Epochs of American History" series will be used as the basis of tne work done in this course.

Fall Term—Four hours a week.

II. American History. Formation of the Union, 1750-1829. Hart, Epochs of American History.

Winter Term—Four hours a week.

III. American History. Division and Reunion, 1829-1899. Wilson, Epochs of American History.

Spring Term—Four hours a week.

IV. History of Civilization. Elective, for Juniors The aim in this course will be to investigate such historical forces and movements as have contributed most to the development of the world's civilization. Much of the work will consist of research in the library.

Winter Term—Four hours a week.

V. History of Philosophy. Elective, for Juniors. As complete a survey of the subject as the time will allow is made, giving the student as clear a view as possible of the origin, progress and present condition of philosophical inquiry.

Text—Weber's History of Philosophy.

Spring Term—Four hours a week.

These courses will be varied from year to year as the necessities of the department may require. Other courses in European History, History of Art, Philosophy of History, will be offered whenever there is a sufficient demand for them.

PEDAGOGY

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

In harmony with the action of the Ohio State Teachers' Association and the Ohio College Association to arrange for pedagogical training of young men and women, the following course of study is presented.

The course as here presented, with the addition of the Philosophy of Teaching and Harris's Psychologic Foundations of Education, is that part of the course required by the State Board of Education for a High School Life Certificate which is not already provided for in our regular courses of study.

PSYCHOLOGY. Preyer's Mental Development of the Child. Psychologic Foundations of Education (Harris).

HISTORY OF EDUCATION. Compayre's History of Pedagogy. Quick's Educational Reformers, revised edition. Painter's History of Education.

SCIENCE AND ART OF EDUCATION. White's School Management. Lange's Apperception. Rosenkrantz's Philosophy of Education. Tompkins's Philosophy of Teaching. Tompkins's Philosophy of School Management.

For the year 1901-1902 the major line of work will be Harris's Psychologic Foundations of Education, all three parts, Preyer's Mental Development of the Child, and Compayre's History of Pedagogy. Lighter works, like Page's Theory and Practice and White's School Management, will be carried on in connection with the above.

THE ACADEMY

The Academy offers the following courses of study:

The Classical Preparatory Course.
The Philosophical Preparatory Course.

Candidates for admission to the Junior Year will present satisfactorv certificates of work done elsewhere in the following subjects, or will be required to pass an examination thereon:

English Grammar.
Composition.
Sentential Analysis.
United States History.
Descriptive Geography.
Arithmetic.

Inasmuch as some students can furnish neither certificates nor other satisfactory evidence for the above work, classes will be formed each term in Arithmetic and English Grammar, and one term in United States History.

Students presenting themselves for advanced standing must submit certificates stating the texts or portions of texts used and the number of hours spent thereon.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION

ENGLISH

I. English Grammar. A knowledge of elementary grammar is presupposed, and the aim is to give a rapid, thorough and complete review of the subject. Considerable attention is given to a comparative study of the most prominent English grammars. A liberal view is taken of disputed points, and the student will be required to cite authorities for views held.

Fall Term—Five hours a week.

II. Rhetoric and Composition. Attention is first given to the origin and development of the English language, with a careful study of the Anglo-Saxon and classical elements; correction of common errors in use of English, punctuation, study of sentences, diction, figures of speech, and letter-writing follow. Throughout both terms there are weekly exercises in composition. This subject is pursued systematically, proceeding gradually from the simple forms to the more complex. While most of this work is done in the classroom, students will occasionally be required to submit more elaborately prepared productions.

Winter and Spring Terms—Five hours a week.

III. English Literature. The aim is to give a comprehensive view of the field of English literature. While the historical feature of the study is most prominent, some attention is given to reading and criticising selections from the most famous authors.

Winter Term—Three hours a week.

IV. American Literature. The course embraces a thorough and chronological study of American writers and the literary periods in the growth of our country. The class will study critically selections from American classics, both prose and poetry. Essays and reviews on assigned topics are frequently required.

Text—Brander Mathews.

Spring Term—Three hours a week.

GREEK

MIDDLE PREPARATORY YEAR, CLASSICAL COURSE

I. The study of Greek begins with White's First Greek Book, which contains exercises in translation from English into Greek, as well as from Greek into English. The Greek forms of inflection are learned, and a vocabulary acquired as rapidly as possible.
Fall and Winter Terms—Five hours a week.

II. With the spring term, Goodwin and White's Xenophon's Anabasis is begun. A careful review of forms is made, and further study of the language is taken in Goodwin's Greek Grammar. The first book of the Anabasis is read this term. Written translations.
Spring Term—Five hours a week.

SENIOR PREPARATORY YEAR, CLASSICAL COURSE

III. Xenophon's Anabasis is continued through the second book and into the third, special attention being given to the syntax, with lessons in the Grammar. Written translations from English into Greek.
Fall Term—Five hours a week.

IV. The Anabasis read to the end of the fourth book. The life and works of Xenophon are reviewed. The military system of the Greeks is studied. Higley's Greek Composition is begun, and written translations are made. Reading at sight. Homer's Iliad is begun in this term. Prosody. Hexameter verse. Scanning.
Winter Term—Five hours a week.

V. Homer's Iliad, Keep's edition, Books I.—VI. Comparison of the Epic and the Attic forms. The story of the Iliad. Mythology of the Greeks. Prosody. Hexameter verse. Scanning. Written translations.
Spring Term—Five hours a week.

LATIN

I. JUNIOR YEAR. The objects aimed at during this year will be (1) the mastery of the inflections, and the essentials of syntax; (2) the acquisition of a good working vocabulary. To attain these ends there will be daily drill and frequent reviews, oral and written. Putting short sentences gradually increasing in difficulty into Latin will be required as a daily exercise after the first few weeks. During the last term of the year easy selections, such as those contained in the Viri Romæ, will be read. The inductive method will be employed at the discretion of the teacher. Text: Smiley and Storke.

II. Middle Year. Cæsar and Cicero. Selections from Roman History, Viri Romæ, Nepos and Cæsar. The character of the work this year will be (1) a thorough review of the inflections of the language, with a more extended study of its syntax; (2) the acquisition of a more extended vocabulary, including studies in the formation of words, with their English derivatives; (3) oral exercises in translating into Latin, accompanied with a systematic course in the writing of Latin, throughout the year; (4) sight and ear translation will be strongly emphasized, and the student will have ample practice in reading aloud the passages to be translated.

Prose Composition, Jones. Bennett's Grammar.

III. Senior Year. The first term will be devoted to Cicero. The Eclogues and six books of the Æneid will be read during the second and third terms. The aim will be to enable the student to become familiar with (1) the prominent features of classical mythology; (2) the general metrical principles of the language (Vergilian prosody will be studied more minutely); (3) the general cycle of myths and events which center in Homer and Vergil and form so large a part of the modern literatures of civilized nations. The year's work will be largely from the literary standpoint, and grammatical features will not be made unduly prominent.

GERMAN

I. Middle Year. During this year special effort is made to acquire accurate pronunciation and a mastery of the forms of inflection. Oral drills and written exercises are given daily to afford the student practice in the use of the language. The reading lesson is made the subject of conversation. Joynes-Meissner's Grammar is used during the three terms. The reading is begun with Stern's Studien and Plaudereien, and followed with such books as Hillern's Hœher als die Kirche and Leander's Træumereien.

Five hours a week.

II. Senior Year. Systematic review of the grammar. Bernhardt's German Composition is used through the year. The exercises are written and rewritten so as to make the student as familiar as possible with the forms of the German sentence. The texts read are also made the basis for composition. The reading of this year comprises two of Schiller's dramas, Maria Stuart and Wilhelm Tell, or an equivalent, and Schrakamp's Erzæhlungen aus der deutschen Geschichte. The latter is to give the student some knowledge of German history preparatory to the history of literature. Arnold's Fritz auf Ferien, Stifter's Das Haidedorf, and works of like grade are used for sight-reading. Conversation and rapid reviews as far as time will permit.

Five hours a week.

MATHEMATICS

I. Advanced Arithmetic. Text, Eaton's New Practical, by Three Hundred Authors. This class will be formed for teachers and students advanced in Arithmetic who desire a more thorough knowledge of the underlying principles involved in the solution of miscellaneous problems. A knowledge of Elementary Algebra will be of great advantage to any desiring this work. This class will continue during the fall term, and will be devoted exclusively to solution of test problems, a satisfactory completion of which will entitle the student to full credit in Arithmetic. Students not qualified to take the above work will be required to devote three terms to the study of Wells's Academic Arithmetic, which will be supplemented by many test problems in profit and loss, stocks and bonds, and mensuration. At any time during the year students may enter that class for which they are prepared.
Five hours a week.

II. Algebra.

Winter Term—The work of this term includes the fundamental operations, use of parentheses, formulas, factoring, highest common factor, least common multiple, and fractions.

Five hours a week.

Spring Term—Simple equations of one, two, and more unknown quantities, involution and evolution.

Five hours a week.

Fall Term—Theory of exponents, radicals, quadratic and simultaneous equations, ratio, proportion, progression, and logarithms. Considerable time throughout the work is devoted to the processes as arguments.

Four hours a week.

III. GEOMETRY.

Winter Term—Books I., II. and III. Special attention is given to proper geometric conceptions, accuracy of statement, and training the logical faculties.

Spring Term—The text is completed. In both terms emphasis is laid on exercises for original work.

Four hours a week.

NATURAL SCIENCE

I. PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. The work covers the forms of the lands and the agents which operate in their formation. Field work illustrates the work in the classroom.
TEXT—Davis's Physical Geography.
Fall Term—Three hours a week.

II. ASTRONOMY. Steel's New Astronomy. An elementary course without mathematics, embracing the general topography of the heavens, stars and nebulæ, the sun and the solar system, comets and meteors, and the real and apparent movements of the heavenly bodies. Frequent use of the telescope will be made.
Spring Term—Four hours a week.

III. ELEMENTARY PHYSICS. Special attention is paid to the fundamental principles of Physics, discussed under solids. liquids and gases. Some knowledge of Algebra and of the metric system is required for admission to this study.
TEXT—Carhart and Chute's Physics.
Fall and Winter Terms—Four hours a week.

IV. Physiology. Sufficient attention is given to anatomy to lay a foundation for the study of Physiology and Hygiene, skeletons, charts and simple dissections being employed as aids. The aim is to make the development of the subject especially profitable to teachers.
Text—Martin's Human Body, Briefer Course.
Fall Term—Four hours a week.

V. Botany. Structural Botany and Morphology are studied in classroom, laboratory and field. Much prominence is given to the relation of the living plant to its surroundings and the influence of environment on structure and growth. Notes and drawings from the laboratory and field work form an important part of the work.
Text. Coulter's Plant Relations.
Spring Term—Four hours a week.

HISTORY

I. Ancient and Mediaeval History. The work in Ancient History includes a chronological review of the origin, development, and downfall of the ancient nations, and in Mediæval History an account of the great forces at work during the Middle Ages. The student is required to use the Library and to prepare articles upon assigned topics.
Text—Myers's General History.
Fall Term—Four hours a week.

II. Modern History. Much attention is given to the consideration of the rise and progress of the modern nations. A study is made of the manners, customs, religion and intellectual and political development of the people. Essays on assigned topics.
Text—Myers.

III. Civil Government. This subject is studied under two general heads: (1) Principles of Government, including the general principles of State and National govrnment. (2) The Constitution, giving special attention to Immigration, Powers of Congress, Money System, and Amendments.
Text—Andrews's Manual of Constitution.
Winter Term—Three hours a week.

IV. Elementary Psychology. The study includes three parts: The Intellect, including the Presentative Faculty, the Representative Faculty, the Elaborative Faculty, and the Regulative Faculty; the Sensibilities, including the Emotions, the Appetites, the Desires, and the Affections; and the Will.

Text—Steele's Elementary Psychology.

DAVIS CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

THE Davis Conservatory of Music affords excellent instruction in both vocal and instrumental music. A commodious building, removed from the other college buildings, is wholly devoted to the use of the Department of Music, and furnishes the best facilities in instruments and conveniences for the work of the Department. This building was procured in 1888, in part through the liberality of the late Rev. L. Davis, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, whose name the Conservatory bears. All the facilities of the Department are for the exclusive use of its students, and it is believed that nowhere can the diligent student find ready helps to more rapid advancement than are afforded here.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

The general plan of instruction is similar to that of the best European conservatories, and aims at the production of intelligent and cultivated musicians.

The musical atmosphere which pervades the Conservatory stimulates and inspires its students to careful work and earnest endeavor, and, instead of a mere superficial knowledge gained for the purpose of display, the solid foundational training pursued cannot fail to produce a desire for all that is beautiful in musical art.

The branches taught are Piano, Singing, Violin, Clarionet, Organ, Mandolin, Guitar, History of Music, and Piano-Tuning.

Generally, from three to five years' study will be necessary to complete satisfactorily the required work. The time will vary according to ability and industry of pupils, and advancement at the time of entrance, but no pupil will be graduated who has not studied music at least one year in this school.

PIANO—COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

GRADE 1. Rudiments of Music. Czerny, Op. 139, No. 1. Schmitt, Preparatory Exercises. Duvernoy, Op. 120. Schultz, Scales and Chords.

GRADE 2. Concone, Op. 24 or 30. Lœschhorn, Op. 65, No. 2 or 3. Czerny, Op. 299, No. 1. Lœschhorn, Op. 66, No. 2. Czerny, Op. 299, No. 2. Concone, Op. 25. Selected Octave Studies. Czerny, Op. 299, No. 3. Haberbier, Finger Gymnastics.

GRADE 3. A Sonata of Haydn. Twelve songs without Words of Mendelssohn. Five Sonatas of Mozart. One book of Heller's Studies of Expression, or one of similar style and difficulty. Czerny, Op. 834. Czerny, Op. 553. Tausig's Daily Studies.

GRADE 4. Cramer's Fifty Studies. Five Sonatas of Beethoven, Chopin, seven Waltzes, two Polonaises, three Masurkas, three Nocturnes, one Ballade, one Scherzo, three Etudes, and three miscellaneous selections. Tausig's Daily Studies.

GRADE 5. Clementi's Gradus ad Parnassum. Four selections from Bach, two from Kubinstein and Moszkowski each, four from Liszt, and four concert pieces of different composers. Tausig's Daily Studies, second book finished. Kullak's Octave Studies.

No music student will be admitted to graduation until he has acceptably finished the study of the music prescribed in above five grades. So-called pieces, except concert pieces, are not counted as regular work.

A change of a particular study may be made, but only with the consent or by the advice of the teacher, and the substituted study must be equivalent in grade to the one prescribed in the course.

In addition, the study of Harmony must be finished according to the text-book, Goetchius, The Material Used in Composition. The importance of this branch of study to all music students cannot be overstated. While a moderate familiarity with its principles and practice greatly facilitates the progress, a sound knowledge of Harmony is essential to the success of all vocalists and instrumentalists. Students of the Collegiate Department will receive credit for Harmony as an elective study upon application.

A complete record of the study and progress of each music student will be kept by the Director.

Classes in History of Music, Analysis and Composition will be organized according to the judgment of the Director.

Advanced pupils will be given frequent exercises in four and eight-hand practice on two pianos. Music for this purpose is provided free of charge from the Director's extensive private library.

Diplomas are given by the University to students who have finished the course to the satisfaction of the Conservatory Faculty.

The Euterpean Band, connected with the Conservatory, is composed of twenty to twenty-five members, and meets regularly for practice. Mr. Carl Helmstetter has been the efficient leader during the past year. Special attention is given to orchestral work.

VOICE CULTURE AND SINGING

The method of vocal study aims, by means of carefully chosen exercises and music, to develop quality of tone, flexibility, power and compass of voice, with correct style and expression in every kind of song. Especial attention is paid to chorus work, as well as to drill in quartets, octets, etc. It is the aim of the Department, by frequent public recitals, to enable the pupil to sing before an audience with ease and self-possession.

Course of Instruction

Grade 1. Concone—Thirty Vocalizations. Vigna—Ninety Exercises. Sieber—Thirty Vocalises. Panseron Method. Concone—Fifty Lessons. Nava—Fifty Exercises. Songs by Mendelssohn, Rubenstein, etc.

Grade 2. Concone—Twenty-five Lessons. Marchesi—Fifty Lessons. Lutgen—Studies. Sieber—Fifty Studies. Marchesi—Thirty Studies in Phrasing. Songs by Mozart, Schubert, Schumann and others.

Grade 3. Concome—Fifteen Lessons. Righini—Exercises. Lamperti—Studies. Bordogni—Thirty-six Exercises. Songs of Standard Composers. Arias Duets, Trios and Quartets from Oratorios and Operas.

Training Department for Teachers of Music in Public Schools

Grade 1. Musical sounds by imitation. The scale, step by step, sung by numbers, with syllables, humming, thinking sounds. First steps in notation upon the staff. Rythm. Sounds of more than one pulse. Ties. Notes of different lengths. Different kinds of measure. Accent. Rests. The Movable Do System. The Letters on the Staff. Keys. How to present them. Signatures as a necessity to distinguish the keys. Intervals. Rote songs. How to write an exercise. How to present all these subjects to the child mind so that it may understand.

GRADE 2. The formation of the Major Scales. Chromatic Scale. Intervals in detail, major, minor, diminished, augmented. Various kinds of rhythm. Phrasing. Two-part singing. How to get results, and how to listen for two parts. Three-part singing. Constant study of rythm and measure. Modulation. Sight-reading exercises. Analysis and conception of music.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Recitals and concerts are given at frequent intervals during the year; also private rehearsals, in which all the music pupils will be expected to take part.

Students may enter at any time. All tuition is payable in advance, and students, before being assigned lesson hours, must present to the Director a card of admission from the Treasurer.

No deduction is made for absence from lessons, except in cases of protracted illness. Sheet music and books at lowest rates.

Recognizing the need of general education for musicians, arrangements have been made whereby each student taking full work in music may take one or two studies each term in any of the regular College classes at special rates. All students making music a specialty are urged to take advantage of this offer.

EXPENSES

The matriculation fee for those who study music alone, with no other work in college, will be twenty-five cents each year, entitling each student to the use of the library without charge.

Tuition for two private half-hour lessons per week for a term of ten weeks:

Piano or Harmony under Director	$15 00
Piano or Harmony under Assistant	10 00
Voice Culture	15 00
Violin, Cello	15 00
Mandolin and Guitar	10 00
Harmony in classes for a term of ten lessons	5 00

Pupils whose homes are not in Westerville, and those having no instruments of their own, are expected to practice in the Conservatory. A number of new upright pianos have been purchased, and are kept in excellent tune. The building is heated by furnace, and the rooms are daily attended by janitor. Above all, the practice is uninterrupted, regular, and under immediate supervision of the teachers. The charges for such practice are: Fall term, one hour daily, $3.00; each additional hour, $2.00; winter or spring term, one hour daily $2.00; each additional hour, $1.50.

ART DEPARTMENT

In our own land it has been but a few years since the study of art was confined to a small number of favored workers, who were supposed to be endowed with special talents for this high calling. The efforts of those who attempted to cultivate this field for pleasure or profit were considered a waste of time and energy, on account of the seeming hopelessness of any degree of success, the foolish idea prevailing that ability and genius were not one and the same, and that no one should attempt the study of art unless he was sure of becoming a second Raphael or Rembrandt. This false view of art has almost passed away, and a general knowledge of art is now considered both possible and essential for every refined and cultured man or woman.

Art study has become a prominent feature in the process of mental development, and for this reason has been introduced into public schools and higher institutions of learning.

The practice of drawing, painting and carving teaches students to be more observing of their surroundings, discriminating in regard to good color, form and design. The young ladies take a leading part in almost every family in decoration and arrangement of the home, and, though the pictures, furniture and ornaments may be inexpensive, yet, if selected by one whose taste is sufficiently cultivated to discriminate between the coarse and flashy, which offends the eye, and the refined and chaste, which charms the soul, is it not fair to assume that more genuine and lasting enjoyment is bought for less money than if left to one who has no taste or judgment in such matters?

The course of art instruction in Otterbein University is sufficiently elastic to meet the desires and aims of those who wish to study art to a limited extent as an accomplishment, as well as those who intend to master more fully the fundamental principles, and expect later to become artists or art teachers.

The aim of the Department is, first, to give thorough technical instruction in the arts of Design; and, second, to impart a knowledge of such branches of learning as relate to the Philosophy, History and Criticism of Art.

COURSES OF STUDY

A. THE TECHNICAL COURSE

Technical instruction is given in the following classes:

CLASS 1. Drawing in black and white from life, nature, flowers, casts, etc.
CLASS 2. Still-Life Class. Drawing and painting in water colors.
CLASS 3. Painting in oil and water colors.
CLASS 4. Portrait Class. Drawing and painting from the draped life model.
CLASS 5. China Painting.
CLASS 6. Wood Carving.
CLASS 7. Pyrography.

B. HISTORY AND CRITICISM OF ART

Theory of Architecture, Sculpture and Painting. Instruction in this course is given by text-book, lectures and collateral reading. This course has special reference to the principles of Art Criticism. Three times a week throughout the year.

DIPLOMAS

Students who complete the work of one or more of the classes of the Technical Course will receive certificates signed by the Instructor.

Diplomas are given by the Trustees of the University to those who have finished the full course.

Professors from other art schools judge and decide on the merit of the student's technical work.

From four to six years will be required by most students to complete the course, but much will depend on their natural ability and industry.

Exhibitions of the technical work of the students of the Department are given at the close of the fall term and during Commencement week. The art rooms are tastily decorated, and friends of the College are cordially invited to attend.

EXPENSES

Pencil, term of ten weeks	$5 00
Charcoal or Crayon, elementary	6 00
Charcoal or Crayon, advanced	10 00
